

Build Kentucky Awards

February 8, 2008 • Lexington Center
Associated General Contractors of Kentucky

Anderson County Board of Education Office

General Contractor
Alliance Corporation

Project Owner
Anderson County Board of Education

AGC Subcontractors
TECO Mechanical, Inc., Whitehouse Electric, Inc.

Building
$2 - 2.9 Million

Architect
Sherman-Carter-Barnhart, PSC

If there was a need for any school board to have a new office, it would most certainly be the Anderson County Board of Education. The Anderson County administration staff moved into the prior board office in 1979. This facility was originally a single family residence that was renovated into a doctor's office that was renovated again into the prior Anderson County Board of Education. The new office can be best summarized in just a couple of words, "efficient" and "stylish". The building is constructed utilizing ICF wall construction, which makes the building very energy efficient. The advanced layout and floor plan make the building very attractive, innovative, and functional. Both of these concepts together combine to give the staff of Anderson County a state of the art building where the education needs of Anderson County can be addressed.

